

Sexually Transmitted Disease Rises Steeply in Putnam

Rates of the sexually-transmitted disease chlamydia have been rising dramatically in Putnam County, in comparison to both the national average and New York State (without New York City). Over the eight years from 2006 to 2014, Putnam's rate has increased more than 200 percent, compared to 32 percent in the country and 38 percent in NYS.

"Rates are measured in number of cases per 100,000 people and while we still have lower case numbers, the rate of increase is alarming," explained Michael J. Nesheiwat, M.D., Interim Commissioner of Health in Putnam County. "This is something we really need to raise awareness about. So it's fitting that April is STD Awareness Month, a time set aside to do just that. With increased knowledge and awareness, we can focus on early diagnosis, treatment and prevention. This means not only educating the public, but physicians as well."

In addition to chlamydia, sexually transmitted diseases that must be reported to the health department by physicians also include gonorrhea and syphilis. All three can result in hospitalization and affect people of all ages. Chlamydia and gonorrhea especially take a heavier toll on young people, particularly women. The effects can be severe because many of these infections can go unnoticed or ignored, and therefore untreated. Pelvic inflammatory disease and infertility are the serious long term.

problems that may result if not treated early with the proper antibiotics. Syphilis, the less common of the three but potentially fatal, has surged in recent years, particularly among men in NYS. In Putnam County, there are ten total confirmed cases so far this year—more than all the cases last year.

The good news is that all STDs—and there are quite a few, including the more well-known HIV, herpes, HPV and trichomoniasis—can be prevented with the proper use of latex condoms. Unfortunately it is possible to have an STD without any signs or symptoms and to spread it. So getting tested and using condoms is advised with any sexual activity (vaginal, anal or oral).

Primary care providers can test and prescribe the right antibiotic treatment. For those who are under- or uninsured, Putnam County's federally qualified health center Open Door provides these services on a sliding scale. The office is located at 155 Main Street in Brewster. Their phone number is 845-279-6999.

The Health Department's mission is to improve and protect the health of the Putnam County community, composed of nearly 100,000 residents. Core services include community health assessment, disease surveillance and control, emergency preparedness, environmental health protection, family health promotion and health education.

Opt-Outs Remain High Across Putnam School Systems

the district an idea of college and career readiness for students.

Putnam Valley Superintendent of Schools Fran Wills in a couple of notes to parents also touted the state tests, stating in one post, "it is our hope that all Putnam Valley students would give their best effort," on the state exams.

The district could face a negative impact to the school's accountability rating because it failed to get at least 95 percent of students to take the tests last year and the district didn't make Adequate Yearly Progress because of the high opt-out rate, she said.

In a more recent post, Wills said there have been changes made to the tests, most notably, giving students as much time as they need to complete it.

"While other measurements are utilized to assess student achievement, the state tests provide important insight into student learning related to the state standards," Wills stated.
